Compensation for the Company's directors consists of a fixed base salary and performance-linked remuneration, the amount of which fluctuates depending on the Company's business performance and other factors. The performance-linked remuneration consists of a financial bonus based on consolidated business results for each fiscal year and remuneration whose payment amount is linked to the stock price during a certain period (hereinafter referred to as "phantom stock").

From the viewpoint of ensuring independence, compensation for outside directors and audit and supervisory committee members is not linked to business performance, and only base compensation is paid.

Detailed information on executive compensation is provided in the Annual Securities Report (Japanese text only).

(2) Procedures for determining compensation

In determining the amount of remuneration for directors or the method of calculating such remuneration, the Board of Directors makes decisions based on the proposals of the Remuneration Committee, which is an advisory body to the Board of Directors. From an independent and objective standpoint, the Remuneration Committee determines individual basic remuneration proposals based on individual performance and abilities, within the maximum amount of remuneration resolved at the General Meeting of Shareholders, and in accordance with the Remuneration Regulations and Remuneration System for Directors and Corporate Auditors. In addition, the remuneration of directors is appropriately deliberated, such as determining individual financial bonus proposals in consideration of the Group's business performance.

The Remuneration Committee is chaired by the CEO and consists of CEO and at least two members appointed by the Board of Directors. Currently, three independent outside directors serve on the committee to ensure independence and objectivity in its deliberations.

4. Matters relating to the selection and dismissal of senior management and the nomination of candidates for directors

(1) Policy on selection and dismissal of senior management and nomination of candidates for directors

In order to respond to the rapidly changing restaurant market, we nominate director candidates with diverse knowledge, experience, and abilities, both internally and externally.

For internal director candidates, we nominate individuals who can contribute to society through the restaurant business and show leadership in continuously increasing corporate value, based on a balance of their knowledge and achievements in general management of family restaurants, financial strategy, and marketing strategy.

The candidates for outside directors are selected for their extensive experience in diverse companies and organizations, including the food service industry.

With regard to candidates for Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee members, we select those who can appropriately audit the execution of duties of a director based on their knowledge of corporate management and their knowledge and experience in accounting, finance, law, risk management, and other areas.

(2) Procedures for selection and dismissal of senior management and nomination of candidates for directors
